

Nextlink receives new significant order for INVISIO Pro headsets

Copenhagen, Denmark, (May 15 , 2007) – Nextlink , an innovative communications company providing specialist headsets to police forces, fire-fighters and military and security personnel, has received a new significant order for its INVISIO Pro headsets.

The order is for the French Gendarmerie and totals 330 units to be delivered during the second quarter of 2007.

“In early 2006 we received our biggest order ever from the French Gendarmerie totalling over 2300 units” said Nextlink’s acting CEO Lars Højgård Hansen.

“We are pleased to see that the French Gendarmes are very satisfied with our sophisticated headsets and continue to place new orders. This is an important reference for us with other large customers” adds Lars Højgård Hansen

For more information please contact:

Lars Højgård Hansen
Acting CEO, Nextlink
Tel: +45 72 40 55 55
lh@nextlink.dk

About Nextlink:

Nextlink provides innovative products and technologies to the consumer and professional user. It develops and markets headphones and headsets for mobile phones and two-way radios based on corded and wireless technologies.

Nextlink holds the patents for Bone Conductive Technology, which provides the best possible speech in all sound environments, and the Soft Spring, for optimal wearing comfort. Both patents are featured in the company’s INVISIO consumer and military communications headsets. Its professional products are used by police forces, fire-fighters, military personnel, security units and Special Forces around the world.

Nextlink AB is a public company listed on the First North (ticker code: NXTL) a market on the Stockholm Stock Exchange. Nextlink has its headquarters in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Additional information is available on the company’s web site at www.nextlink.se